Hi all,

I just wanted to share this webinar with you on Virtual Tutoring that the USG STEM IV Initiative is sponsoring tomorrow. Although it is sponsored by STEM, it will have resources that can be applied across the curriculum.

Please feel free to share with those that may need additional resources to assist students in preparing to go to fully online platforms.

I hope this find you all well. Please let me know if you have any concerns or challenges that I can assist you.

Take care,
Cynthia

Hello USG colleague –

Please accept my sincere thanks to everyone preparing for our new paradigm beginning this Monday. To further assist with making this swift transition, the USG STEM IV Initiative is sponsoring a Virtual Tutoring webinar on Friday, March 27, 2020 at 2:00 p.m.

Our presenters will cover: WebEx; Webex Teams; Tutor.com; GSU Hu free tutoring program; Zoom; Spring Share (STEM411); Microsoft Teams; and GoBoard.

This will be a chance to learn about other platforms and get connected with faculty and staff at other institutions who may have solutions to some of the “glitches” in chosen approaches. GoBoard might also be possibility to use as an add-on to whichever approach your institution has chosen.

Please join us (via the Microsoft Teams link) by locating the invitation from the University of North Georgia’s Tutoring Center director, Mr. Hieu Huynh, forwarded to you this morning. If you cannot attend, no worries -- the webinar will be archived for later use.

Your meeting invitation would appear like this (If you cannot find it, please let me know and I’ll forward it to you):
