CREATE A RICH YEAR

Dalila Thomas came to Hiram College with a clear vision: to make a difference in the world. Since her first year, she has dedicated herself to helping others and making the most of her educational experience.

Her passion for health services began in high school, where she volunteered at a local hospital and developed a strong interest in healthcare. After much research, she decided to pursue a career in trauma surgery, a field that combines her love for medicine with her desire to help others.

Dalila has been working all year to prepare for her future in medicine. She has taken courses in anatomy, physiology, and biochemistry, and has participated in research projects that have given her valuable hands-on experience.

We are proud of Dalila and all her achievements so far. Her dedication to her studies and her commitment to helping others is truly inspiring.

DEATH AND TAXES

According to a survey by National Today, 27% of Americans spend their tax returns to pay off debt. Another 24% use it to pay for college or other education expenses.

It is estimated that Americans spend an average of 19.4% of their income on taxes, with the average state and local tax rate being 7.72%. The federal income tax rate is currently 22%, with rates for higher-income individuals ranging from 32% to 37%.

The deadline for filing taxes is April 15th, which falls on a Saturday this year. The Internal Revenue Service (IRS) will mail out refunds to those who file on time, with a deadline of April 17th.

World Health Day 2021

World Health Day is observed on April 7th each year to raise awareness of global health issues and to promote action towards improving health and well-being for all.

This year, the theme is “Building a Fairer, Healthier World.” The World Health Organization (WHO) is launching a campaign plan to end unequal health outcomes, promote steps to achieve gender equity and human rights, and make the globe accountable and ensure that all people live and work in conditions conducive to good health.

The pandemic has highlighted inequalities during the pandemic. Some people are able to live healthier lives due to their conditions. There are also large variances in population’s health due to the differences in the ability of countries to collect accurate medical data of vulnerable communities.

Assessing the need is about making sure all people have access to good quality health care when they need it. To improve global health, WHO provides resources for countries to use to improve health outcomes.

According to WHO, 2021, only 50% of the world’s population cannot obtain the health services they need. To improve global health, WHO provides resources for countries to use to improve health outcomes.

World Autism Day

World Autism Day is observed on April 2nd each year to raise awareness of autism spectrum disorder (ASD) and to encourage countries around the world to support for autism awareness.

This day is about making sure all people have access to good quality health care when they need it. To improve global health, WHO provides resources for countries to use to improve health outcomes.

According to the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC), one in 54 children have been identified with autism spectrum disorder (ASD) according to estimates from CDC’s Autism and Developmental Disabilities Monitoring (ADDM) network.
